

THE REUNION WINTER TOUR '26

The winter shades you begged us to bring back are getting the band back together. Original formulas. One season only. New hits incoming.

WINTER 2026

LIMITED PRESSING

ONE SEASON ONLY

THE CONCEPT

SOME LEGENDS NEVER CHIP.

We treat the discontinued winter shades like a band that split up and is reuniting for one tour. Every touchpoint borrows the language of a music comeback — the setlist, the greatest hits, the encore, the reissue, the presale.

It works because it hands us two things for free: nostalgia (the fans already love these shades and have been asking for them) and scarcity ("one season only / limited pressing"). The campaign builds anticipation, then rewards it — and it plugs straight into the Winter Vault reveal already teased for September.

Tone: confident, a little tongue-in-cheek, unmistakably a comeback. Poster ink, stage lights, vinyl inserts — not snowflakes and glitter.

THE ROLLOUT · 6 BEATS

ORDER OF PLAY

1 ANNOUNCE

THE TOUR POSTER

Festival gig-poster line-up with the winter shades as headliners. The announcement drop — already prototyped in the existing render.

"One season only."

2 REVEAL

THE SETLIST DROP

Carousel that reveals the shades one "track" at a time — each slide a swatch on skin plus a lyric-style caption.

"Track 03 just dropped."

3 HERO

THE COMEBACK SINGLE

One hero shade drops first as the "lead single." The whole teaser week orbits it before the full collection lands.

"The single you streamed to death."

4 ENGAGE

THE ENCORE

A fan-voted bonus shade that unlocks if the drop sells out — the natural home for the Winter Vault vote.

"One more! One more!"

5 CONVERT

BACKSTAGE PASS

The email list becomes the VIP list: 24-hour early access before the public drop. Rewards loyalty, drives sign-ups now.

"Doors open early for the list."

6 PROOF

THE REISSUE

"Remastered, not remade" — same formula, same bottle. A then-and-now split that answers the "is it really the same?" question.

"Loved then. Iconic now."
